Under the Lino

presented by Caylie Jeffery

The TDHS welcomes back local author Caylie Jeffery who will speak about her recently published book titled Under the Lino: The Mystery, The History, The Community.

When Caylie Jeffery, a Milton resident, spoke at our Members' Meeting in November 2017, she told our members about finding some bankbooks and money under the lino of her 1912 Queensland while she and her husband were refurbishing.

At the end of 2017, the Brisbane community successfully crowdfunded enough money for Caylie to publish a book about the story behind these finds, and about the family that the items and money belonged to.

Caylie's book was recently launched on 13 October 2018 at the Old Bishopsbourne in Milton.

In her presentation to our members Caylie will tell the story of how she and her team of Digital Detectives – all volunteers – investigated these finds and how they each had a particular interest in solving the mysteries of these documents and the related mysteries that have raised their fascinating heads during the journey.

Copies of the book will be available for purchase:
